Good Samaritan Campus and College Rights
The Good Samaritan Campus, Thomas Carr College, maintains the right to immediately withdraw a student from the iD9 Country Experience where a student places themselves, their peers, staff or members of the local community at risk of personal injury.

Withdrawal from the iD9 Country Experience will also occur in circumstances where a student brings the program into disrepute. Where a student has been withdrawn from the iD9 Country Experience, parents are expected to remove their child from the Good Samaritan Campus as soon as possible and the responsibility for doing so is solely that of the parents. Failure to collect a student from the Campus in a timely manner may result in alternative transport arrangement’s being made, and the associated costs passed onto the parents.

The College will advise parents when such a situation has arisen and will arrange for the parent to meet with the relevant personnel (e.g. Head of School, Deputy Principal, and Principal).
